The subject for discussion will be "International Relations." All welcome.

The Shakespeare Society postponed its meeting last Tuesday to February 8 in sympathy for the victims of the Knickerbocker Theater disaster. Unit probably the last earthly message written by her was a report to the publicity chairman, mailed at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, which reached its destination Monday and was recorded at the executive board meeting with a tribute to the faithful worker—now among the army triumphant. The text of Mrs. Wessons' report is as follows: "Chaumont Unit is a series of six lectures on citizenship, to be given under the direction of the National Association for Constitutional Government. The first lecture will be Thursday morning, February 9, and the others on the five succeeding days."

Relief to the Knickerbocker Sufferers. The Quentin Roosevelt and the St. Michael units both had the privilege of rendering service Saturday night at the Christian Science Church, the former taking awaters and hot coffee and the latter helping to collect blankets and hot-water bottles for the injured.

Americanism. In response to an appeal, the George Baldwin McCoy Unit raised $150 to pay for the teacher engaged in community Americanization education. The Red Cross has no funds to continue this work, and the American Women's Legion is making itself responsible for it, and by voluntary contributions from different units hopes to provide the amount.

The American Women's Legion is bowed in the grief of all Washington. One of her most valued members was among the victims of the Knickerbocker disaster, Mrs. Charles M. Wessons, secretary of the Chaumont Unit. Probably the last earthly message written by her was a report to the publicity chairman, mailed at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, which reached its destination Monday and was recorded at the executive board meeting with a tribute to the faithful worker—now among the army triumphant. C.—Monday evening the following officers were elected for the year: Sarah Beall, a member of the resolutions committee, in charge, Saturday, March 11, and 8:15 p.m., at the Knickerbocker Theater disaster. Bridge and five hundred will be played both afternoon and evening. Mrs. Howard S. Le Roy is in charge.

The International Association of Arts and Letters entertained recently in compliment to visiting writers in the city. Maurice Egan, diplomat and author, was the guest of honor, but so stormy weather that arrangements were made to repeat the affair, when the theater calamity plunged the society into grief at the loss of one of its charter members, William Mortimer Crocker. At its current meeting Hugh Marshall, Irish poet and original short story, and Mrs. Mabel Owens Wilcox filled an unexpected gap in the program with selections from Shakespeare. Mirza Hussein Khan Aia, Persian minister, being called to New York, desired that his place on the program might be taken by John L. Calowell, former United States minister to Persia. Both Mr. and Mrs. Calowell responded with digests from works of oriental writers. The music was from the "Persian Garden." Lily Lehman, with Claude Scherger, soprano; Miss Christine Levin, contralto; Ross Farrar, tenor, and Herman Falkner, baritone.

The Argyle Study Club will meet at the home of Mrs. James Neale, 1324 Emerson street, tomorrow at 8:30 o'clock. The subject for the afternoon, under the supervision of Mrs. E. E. Norwood, will be "Current Events."
